JL: Playboy's librarian phoned this afternoon with a rush order for [illegible] be sent to Jim McKinley. Today's mail had a nice letter from Jeff Norman offering to repay all costs of replacing the set of Post Mortem xeroxes they seem to have lost.

Probably something is in the works but I've not heard what from either.

Too many possibilities to conjecture. We'll find out in time.

So quiet a day I got to take a walk in the morning and to mow before lunch and before supper. Best, HW 7/28/75
